

Department of Justice.

The House Committee on Retrenchment have agreed upon Mr. Jencks' bill to establish a Department of Justice, and will report, with recommendation that it pass, as soon as the author shall have finished a statement—to be presented with the bill—showing the cost for legal assistance and counsel in the various departments of the Government, as compared with the reduced expense under the proposed measure. The essential feature of the bill is, that it provides that there shall be an executive Department of Justice, of which the Attorney General shall be the head. It further provides that there shall be an assistant to the Attorney General, to be called the Solicitor General, at a salary of $7,500; two assistant Attorneys General, at a salary of $5,000 each. In case of death, absence or inability of the Attorney General, the Solicitor General is to fill the place; the solicitors of the Treasury, of Internal Revenue, of the Navy, Judge Advocate General and Examiner of Claims of the State Department, and their assistants, to be transferred to the Department of Justice. Except upon a constitutional question, the Attorney General may require the written opinion of any of his subordinates upon any legal subject submitted to him. The Attorney General may direct the Solicitor General to, or may himself argue cases in the Supreme Court, or may send the Solicitor to any State to argue cases in which the United States is interested. The Solicitor and Assistant Attorney Generals to be appointed by the President, by and with the consent of the Senate. Subordinate officers and clerks to be appointed by the Attorney General. A stenographic clerk to be appointed for the Department, at a salary of two thousand dollars. The supervisory powers now exercised by the Secretary of the Interior over accounts of district attorneys, marshals, clerks, and other officers of the Courts of the United States shall be exercised by the Attorney General. The conduct of all judicial proceedings and the attorneys of the United States are to be under the control of the Attorney General. The Secretary of the Treasury and other heads of departments are no longer authorized to employ attorneys as counsel at the expense of the United States, but must rely upon the Department of Justice. Provision is made for employing additional counsel under certain circumstances, when, in the opinion of the Attorney General, there is necessity for it. The Attorney General is to make an annual report to Congress, and to have printed from time to time at the government printing office one thousand copies of such opinions of his and assistants as he may deem valuable for preservation. Each head of any department of the Government may require the opinion of the Attorney General on all questions of law arising in the administration of their respective departments. The duties enjoined upon the Auditor of the Post Office Department to be performed by the Department of Justice, and the Attorney General to have charge of prosecutions for mail depredations and penal offences against the postal laws.

Three brothers, bearing a remarkable resemblance to each other, recently went into the same barber shop, and on the same day, to be shaved; one going in the morning, the other at noon, and the third at night. When the last one appeared, the barber, who was a German, dropped his razor in astonishment, and exclaimed: "Vell, dat man has de fastest beard I never saw; I shaved him dis morning, shaves him at dinner times, and he comes back now mit his beard so long as never vash."

An old batchelor picking up a book, exclaimed, upon seeing a wood-cut representing a man kneeling at the feet of a woman; "Before I would kneel to a woman, I would encircle my neck in a rope and stretch it." And then turning to a young woman, he inquired, "Do you not think it would be the best I could do?" "It would undoubtedly be the best for the woman," was the sarcastic reply.

A little three-year-old daughter of a clergyman sometimes takes an unsolicited part in family worship. The other day, as the father prayed; "Lord, give us a little more grace and trust," the small one broke in immediately with: "Lord, give us a little more grease and toast," thereby detracting something from the gravity of the occasion.

Fun represents a six year old, in Knickerbocker's, seated in a barber's chair, and to him the hairdresser says: "Well, my little gentleman, and how would you like your hair cut?" "Oh, like papa's, please—with a little round hole at the top."

The Massachusetts Legislature has a petition one hundred feet long against horse racing.

The Grand Ronde river has been very high and has caused the destruction of much property.

Droves of cattle are being driven, lately, from Eastern Oregon to Idaho, to be disposed of for beef.

Cincinnati barbers now have to submit to a "breath inspection" on the part of the bosses every morning.

A short time since some workmen plowing in a field, in Union county, Oregon, turned up a lot of human bones.

A meteoric stone weighing about 5,000 pounds, is reported to have fallen recently near Momzouk, the capital of Fezzan, Africa.

The Tehuantepec canal bill has passed the Mexican Congress with the proposed amendments. A determined effort is being made to stop brigandage.

There is good sense in this "new motto for merchants."

"Late to bed and early to rise, Never get tight—and advertise."

Wendell Phillips is preaching in Boston. In one of his sermons recently, he said when the devil pours out one dollar, Christianity must pour out two.

Out in Nevada, they say, when a white man kills an Indian that he presents him with a ticket of admission to the red man's happy hunting grounds. Thus facetiously do they intimate that he is in truth a dead-head.

"To the parent whose son dies in infancy," says the Louisville Courier-Journal, "there must be something peculiarly soothing in the thought that, no matter what may be the fate of the child in the next world, it can never become a member of a base-ball club in this."

A clergyman, in a recent sermon, in New York, quoted an anecdote of an old merchant who instructed his clerks: "When a man comes into a store and talks of his honesty, watch him; if he talks of his wealth, don't try to sell to him; if he talks of his religion, don't trust him a dollar."

A lad of fourteen years, named Little, while playing in the saw mill of the Marine Railway at Cincinnati, on Monday, his clothing caught on a revolving shaft, and he was whirled around it several hundred times before the machinery could be stopped. He luckily escaped with only a broken leg.

The Utica Herald, dismissing of the arrest of 21 Harvard students, who passed the night in a station house, says that the vagaries of students have been too patiently borne by residents in the vicinity of colleges. A few applications of law would do more to prevent the recurrences of outrages than all the "warnings and ratiocinations" it is in the power of Faculties to administer.

In the absence of any other messenger, a colonel sent word to the band by the surgeon, that some music was wanted.

"Can't blow a note," said the drummer, "for we haven't had anything to eat yet."

"No excuse at all," said the doctor; "blow away; there's always plenty of wind in an empty stomach."

Some music teacher once wrote that "the art of playing a violin requires the nicest perception and the most sensibility of any art in the known world." Upon which an editor comments in the following manner: "The art of publishing a newspaper, and making it pay, and at the same time making it please everybody, beats fiddlin' higher than a kite."

The highest class of black bear skins are used for making the martial head-gear of the British footguards, commonly included under the term of "Household Brigade." The guardsman is rather an expensive article as to his head covering. Out of some 5,000 bear skins now in the Hudson Bay Company's "bear room," only about 400 are suitable for army purposes, and a fine skin fetches as much as £5.

A bearded girl has made her appearance at Glad Spring depot, Washington county, Va. She is four years old, and has a moustache and whiskers, the hair on the forehead extending to the eyebrows. Very heavy hair extends below the shoulders. The child is sprightly, with fully developed limbs and well formed body. The arms, shoulders and back are covered with soft brown hair.

It has lately come to light that some ingenious person has discovered a method of extracting a kind of yellow grease, resembling butter in appearance, from London mud. This stuff is mysteriously shipped off to Holland, and a horrible suspicion has arisen among London householders that it returns to them in the shape of the Dot. h butter so largely consumed in their kitchens.

SCROFULA is a taint or infection in the human organism which weakens the vital forces, and disorders or disarranges the functions of the whole system. This taint or infection is most usually hereditary in the constitution, but it may also arise from habits of life, unwholesome food, etc. In time, if this disease does not show itself in an ulcerous or tubercular form, it induces those other diseases, such as consumption, ulcerations of the liver, stomach and kidneys, salt rheum, dropsy, etc. The best remedy ever yet discovered is "Dr. Walker's VEGETABLE VINEGAR BITTERS." It will cure the disease if not too far advanced, and will eradicate the cause.
